Sports are a great way to have fun and stay active. You have lots of choices about which sports to do and whether to take part in sports competitions or just play them for fun. One person might be happy to play ping-pong in the park, while another person may prefer being on a basketball team that competes against other teams.

Competition can make sports more exciting. But because somebody wins and somebody loses it also can make you feel pressure. A little pressure can be OK. Too much pressure is bad news.

55. In paragraph 2, the writer is talking about

- | | |
|---------------------------------|--------------------|
| 1) individual sports | 2) team sports |
| 3) the pressure of competitions | 4) exciting sports |

56. The pronoun “it” (in line 6) refers to

- | | | | |
|----------------|----------|-------------|---------------|
| 1) competition | 2) sport | 3) pressure | 4) having fun |
|----------------|----------|-------------|---------------|

57. According to this passage which statement is correct?

- 1) Sports competitions are great fun, whether you win or lose.
- 2) Feeling a little excited in competitions is OK.
- 3) When you're active, you're actually playing a sport.
- 4) You must stay happy even if you lose.

58. “Too much pressure is bad news.” It means that

- | | |
|---------------------------------|---|
| 1) it's terrible to get excited | 2) you shouldn't become excited at all |
| 3) if you lose, it's bad news | 4) you can't have fun when you're too excited |

Good Luck.
